“The Syllabus is a re-casting and a re-arranging of this branch of studies. The main object of the course is to develop an interest in the scientific study of the Indian Languages both ancient and modern. For this purpose there has been a splitting in the VIIth Paper into two branches, ancient and modern. All through, an accurate knowledge of Sanskrit has been assumed. The mother-tongue of the candidate is the dialect to be specially studied in historical detail for Papers IV, V and VI. For the present in the list of books, only those relating to Bengali have been set down for this purpose, and as need arises, similar books for the other dialects of India will be laid down. For those choosing the modern branch (in Paper VII), a course of studies in the Elements of Non-Aryan Linguistics has been prescribed.

Candidates are expected to be acquainted with French and German authorities on the subject.

Similar courses for Semetic, Dravidian, Teutonic and Romance Philology may be laid down as needed.”

Read the following Proceedings of the Board of Higher Studies in English, dated the 4th April, 1918 :—

“ The Board met, at the request of the Syndicate, to consider the following letter from the President of the Governing Body of the Jagannath College, Dacca, forwarding the name of Rai Lalitmohan Chatterjee Bahadur, M.A., Principal, Jagannath College, Dacca, for appointment as University Lecturer in English at Dacca from the commencement of the session 1918-19.

From

F. C. French, Esq., C.S.I., I.C.S.,
 Commissioner, Dacca Division and
 President of the Governing Body,
 Jagannath College.

To

The Registrar, Calcutta University,
 Senate House, Calcutta.

Dated Dacca, the 11th March, 1918.

SIR,

I have the honour, under Chapter XI of the Regulations of the Calcutta University, to forward the name of Rai Lalit Mohan Chatterjee Bahadur, M.A., Principal, Jagannath College for appointment as University Lecturer at Dacca for Post-Graduate teaching in English.

The Governing Body of the College realise that, in order to enable Principal Chatterjee to do justice to his work as University Lecturer it will be necessary not only to set him free from part of his under-graduate teaching but also to arrange that he may get some help from his colleagues on the English staff. We are, therefore, willing to appoint an additional M.A. in English to the Collage staff, for two years in the first instance, on a pay of Rs. 150-10-250. We except that on these terms, we shall be able to secure a suitable man.

When this new man is appointed there will be five Professors on the English staff and it will be possible to provide six lectures a week for the Fifth-year Class and six lectures a week for the Sixth-year Class besides Seminar Work.

Ever since the College was raised to the first-grade, it has been teaching English up to the B.A. Honours standard and it has now established a reputation for sound teaching in that subject. Almost year after year students after obtaining their Bachelor's degree and desirous of continuing their studies under the same Professors leave the College with regret.

As Dacca is the only place outside Calcutta where there is some provision for Post-graduate teaching in English, the proposed arrangement will not, perhaps, be regarded as unnecessary multiplication of lectures. Although the Dacca College enjoys affiliation in English up to the M.A. standard, the numerical strength of the English staff there is only slightly superior to that of Jagannath College and the appointment of an experienced and reputed Professor like Principal Chatterjee as University Lecturer will really be in the interests of good education.

With regard to the qualifications of Principal Chatterjee there can be no question. He is a first class M.A. in English of longer standing than any member of the Dacca College Staff in English except one who is senior to him by one year. He has been for some time Fellow of the University, Member of Board of Studies and Examiner in English. As a teacher of English he bears the highest reputation.

He will be helped by Professor Satischandra Sarkar, M.A. also an experienced and reputed teacher and by the additional Professor we propose to appoint. We propose to charge a fee of Rs. 5 from Post-graduate students, if the University approves. The lectures will be held at the Jagannath College.

Under these circumstances, may I request that you will be so good as to place before the Hon'ble the Vice-Chancellor and Syndicate this letter at your earliest convenience so that, if the appointment is sanctioned, work may be started with the commencement of the next session.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

F. C. FRENCH,

President.

“ Read the following Memorandum by the President :—

OUTLINES OF A SCHEME FOR THE ADVANCED STUDY OF THE INDIAN VERNACULARS.

The time has long passed away when elaborate arguments were needed to make even Indian scholars realise the vital importance of a critical and scientific, historical and comparative study of the great Indian vernaculars. During the last twelve years, fortunately, the opinion has steadily gained ground that the intellectual activity of a corporation of scholars in this country may be most profitably directed towards a systematic investigation of the language and literature of our chief vernaculars. The duty has, indeed, been officially imposed upon one of the Indian Universities to encourage research in vernacular literatures and languages and to foster their growth, by the publication of critical editions of early texts, and by historical investigations of their origins, early development and ramification into a variety of dialects. I have long maintained the view that a subject so extensive in scope, so well calculated to rouse intellectual curiosity, may fittingly be included in the scheme for our highest Degree Examinations. But this object can be successfully attained, only after the materials for study and investigation have been made easily accessible to teachers and students. This was precisely my purpose, when I induced Rai Saheb Dineschandra Sen to prepare, for the University, volumes of Typical Selections in Bengali on a quite comprehensive scale. These volumes present the development of the Bengali Language and Literature in a style never before attempted and have been enthusiastically acclaimed by competent scholars working in various seats of learning, in and beyond India. I am emphatically of opinion that the time has arrived when a further definite advance should be made in this direction, and plainly, the initiative should be taken by the Post-Graduate Department of the University. Animated by this desire, I have utilised my recent visits, in my capacity as a Member of the University Commission, to different parts of India, in discussing this question with a number of distinguished scholars, and I am now in a position to lay before my colleagues the outlines of my plan. My proposal in substance is that the services of competent scholars, wherever available, should be secured to prepare a series of volumes of Typical Selections, dealing with the chief Indian Vernaculars and illustrating the origin and development of both the language and the literature. The Selections will be made from sources published and unpublished, and manuscript materials will be utilised to the fullest extent desirable. The general plan of the volumes will be historical and critical, similar to that adopted for the Bengali Typical Selections, and I venture to entertain the hope that if the Selections are judiciously made, they will not only serve to illustrate linguistic and literary evolution, but will also help to illuminate many a dark corner of social, religious and administrative history. Each volume will be furnished with an introduction, glossary, notes and appendices. The volumes, as they become ready, will be published by the University and will no doubt tend to enhance its reputation as a true seat of learning. It is difficult to determine in advance the exact amount of honorarium which should be offered to each editor, as it must depend largely upon the extent of the individual work; but it may be generally stated that the amount will ordinarily vary between Rs. 1,000 and

Rs. 2,000. I am glad to be able to state that I have already secured the services of competent scholars for the undermentioned languages :

ASSAMESE.

Srijut Hemchandra Goswami, author of the Assamese Lexicon Hemakosha.

Mr. Goswami has drawn up, with my approval provisionally given, the following scheme for compilation of the Typical Selections in Assamese.

"I propose to divide the Assamese literature into six different periods on historical and philological considerations.

The first period begins about 600 A.D., when the great Chinese traveller Huian Tsiang visited the country and extends up to 800 A.D. when the aphorisms of Dak were first reduced to writing. During this period, the literature remained in an unwritten state, and it was entirely lyrical in its nature. The cradle songs, the pastoral songs, the Bihu songs and the ballads of Assam, belong to this period. I propose to call this as lyrical period or नैति युग

The second period begins about 800 A.D., when the mantras and the aphorisms were first reduced to writing and extends up to 1200 A.D., the time when the regular written literature took its birth. I propose to style this period as the period of Mantras and aphorism or मन्त्र चार भनिता युग

The third period begins about 1200 A.D., when the translation of the Purans and Ramayana was taken in hand for the first time by writers like Hema Saraswati, Madhaba Kandali and Pitambar Dwija, to prepare the way for Vaisnavism in the next period and extends up to 1450 A.D., the time of Sankara's birth. I propose to call this as the Pro-vaisnavite period or प्रक् वैष्णवी युग

The fourth period commences 1450 A.D. with the birth of Sankara Deva, the great Exponent of Vaisnavism in Assam, and extends up to about 1600 A.D. All the great writers of Ancient Assamese literature flourished in this period, and the literature was chiefly employed in this period for the propagation of Vaisnavism. I propose to call this as the Vaisnavite period or वैष्णवी युग

The fifth period begins about 1600 A.D. with the consolidation of the Ahom Power in the country and extends up to 1800 A.D., about which time the country came under British Rule. This period was marked by great literary activity, and numerous books were written on a variety of subjects by writers of all grades ; but, on the whole, it was a period of deterioration owing to the depredations caused by the Burmese and the Moamarias. As the literature in this period lost in depth, it gained in surface and so I propose to call this the period of extension or बिस्तार युग

The sixth and the last period commences in 1800 A.D. with the advent of the British, and continues up to the present time. With the spread of English Education, the vernacular literature of the country assumed a new mould ; I propose to call this the modern age or वर्तमान युग and fix its limit at 1900 A.D.

The compilation will consist of two volumes of 1000 pages each ; it is proposed to form the first volume with selections from the first four periods and the second volume with selections from the last two periods. An introduction in English will be added to the first volume dealing with the history of the language and the literature, and a glossary of archaic words with meanings will be put at the second volume ”.

I am in communication with scholars interested in some of the other Indian Vernaculars, and I hope, when negotiations are sufficiently advanced, to lay before my colleagues supplementary proposals.

Read the following Note by Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar on the preparation of a work consisting of Typical Selections from Marathi :—

“The requirements of Philology as far as the Marathi language is concerned will be best satisfied by my giving transcripts of about half a dozen Marathi inscriptions ranging from the 11th to the 16th century. They will be accompanied by facsimilies of the most important ones. The value of these epigraphic materials can scarcely be exaggerated. As they are contemporary records, they must be taken as most faithfully representing the Marathi language or dialect of the period and of the locality to which they belong. If to this are added typical extracts from the earliest Marathi works from oldest reliable manuscripts, we shall obtain an abundance of materials for the philologist to work upon.

Marathi literature I would divide into four main periods. The first extends roughly from the 11th to the middle of the 17th century. The literature of this period is characterised by great originality of thought and religious fervour. It is also noteworthy for the history of Maharashtra religions. For it is in this period that we have to take note of the curious combination of Vaishnavism with Saivism which is nowhere noticeable in the whole of India at any period. It is the engrafting of the Yoga practice and the शुद्धाद्वैत philosophy of the Saiva sect called Natha (नाथ) or Kanphada (कानफडा) on the original Vaishnavism of Maharashtra. And it is only at the beginning of the 16th century that the Advaita philosophy, if not the Yoga practice, was held up to ridicule and dissevered from the Bhakti Marga (भक्तिमार्ग). It will be seen that Vaishnavism of this period has a chequered history, and many are the works representing these phases of Vaishnavism. It was again in this first period that the Manbhav (मानभाव) sect arose. It has a distinct iconoclastic tendency, and what is strange is that it came into existence before the Muhammadans invaded Maharashtra. This sect has a vast literature of its own, which is very important for both political and religious history and also philology as most of its works are in the Marathi language of the 12th and 13th centuries. The adherents of this sect are notorious for their insularity and incommunicativeness, but I am glad I have prevailed on some of them to show me the most important portions of their literature. Not the least valuable works of this period, again, are Panchatantra ((पञ्चतन्त्र)) and कौकशास्त्र in old Marathi prose of the 13th century, perhaps the most curious being a Christian Purana (पुराण) by Thomas Stephens in Konkani Marathi poetry of the 16th century.

The second period ranges from about the middle of the 17th to about the middle of the 18th century. This was the age not so much of originality as of translation. It was in this period that the translation of the महाभारत and रामायण was taken in hand by poets like Amritarav, Moropant and so forth. Though originality was lacking, it was more than compensated by the martial spirit of the age which is reflected in the metrical Pavadas (पावाड) and the prose Bakhars (बखर).

The third period commences about 1750 A. D. Some attempt at originality is perceptible but there is a tendency towards frivolousness and lewdness. Some of the compositions of this period known as Lavani (लावणी) and Katav (कटाव) are exceedingly lyric and some even devotional.

The fourth period extends from 1805 A.D. down to the present day. This period shows the influence exercised by English education both on the Marathi language and literature but is not without originality of conception and good diction.

The Marathi literature spread over these periods is really so vast and varied that I am afraid it will not be possible for me to do justice to it except in two volumes, each containing about 1000 pages. These will consist of (1) the transcripts and facsimiles of the important Marathi inscriptions. (2) of typical extracts from the works of the renowned authors with small biographies and annotations wherever required, and (3) of two introductory essays one treating of the Marathi language from the philological point of view and the other giving an account of the various phases of the Marathi literature which have been very briefly adverted to. The volumes will also contain bibliographies showing which Marathi works have been printed and where and also which are the scholarly articles connected with them which a student of Marathi literature may consult with advantage."

Read at the request of the Syndicate the following resolution regarding the resuscitation of Prakrit language passed at the eleventh session of Jain Svetamber Conference held at Calcutta in December, 1917 :—

"It is resolved as our Jain Scriptures are mostly written in Maghadhi (or Prakrit) language, it is necessary to see the instructions imparted in that language, and specially to have its protection secured.

This conference asks Jain Scholars and institutions to make endeavours to the effect that the Prakrit language be prescribed in their curriculum as Second Language by the Universities in India, in order that Jain students may avail themselves of it as their Second Language, and this Conference expresses its thanks to the University of Calcutta for its inclusion of Prakrit language in its curriculum of studies and requests the other Universities to follow its example.

A copy of this Resolution be published in the public papers and be forwarded to the proper authorities of Calcutta and other Universities."

RESOLVED—

(1) That the scheme outlined by the President in his Memorandum be approved.

(2) That the undermentioned gentlemen be appointed to prepare Typical Selections in the languages mentioned, the Selections when ready to be published by the University :—

Read the following note by Dr. Taraporewala on the preparation of Typical Selections on Gujarati.

“The work is rendered easier by the existence of several volumes of poetical selections from Gujarati already published in Bombay and elsewhere. Notable among them are Prachina Kavya Mala and the Brihat Kavya Dohan in eight volumes. The work would easily fill two volumes of about 1000 pages each.

I would divide Gujarati literature into seven divisions partly based on chronology and partly on geographical and communal considerations. These divisions are :—

1. From about the 10th Century A.D. to the 14th.
2. From the 15th to the 17th Century.
3. The 18th Century to 1850.
4. From 1850 to the present day.

These four divisions are chronological and include the Hindu writers of Gujarat proper.

But Gujarati has been spoken during all these centuries in the very interesting and romantic land of Saurashtra or Sorath, what we call at the present day Katkiawad. The Gujarati there is a particularly rich dialect and of very great interest to the philologist. This, therefore, would make my next division :—

5. The literature of Saurashtra (mostly unpublished).

Then there is the Parsi community who have been in India, principally in Gujarat, since the middle of the 12th century and they have adopted the language as their mother-tongue. This race has produced a dialect which is now quite distinct from Hindu Gujarati and which is also of interest to the philologist. There have been Parsi writers of some note during these centuries and there have been a lot of new writers among them in modern times ; so I would put them together as :—

6. Parsi Writers.

What applies to Parsis applies to Moslems as well though their dialect is not quite so different and their numbers too are fewer. Thus we get 7 Islamic writers.

1. The period from the 10th Century up to the 14th comprises mainly Jain literature. The mass of it is enormous and very little of it has been printed as yet. Some of these are published in the Jaina Kavya Mala. The literature is mainly theological but also partly of Rasas which are semi-historical semi-religious poems. The language is nearest the Apabhramsha Prakrit. This may be called the Apabhramsha or the Jaina period.

2. The period from the 15th to the 17th Century may be styled the Period of Bhaktimarga. It is instinct with Vaishnava doctrines and in some respects it has been the inspiring force of all the literature which followed. The two great figures at its beginning are Narasinha Mehto and Miranbai. The language is more or less modern Gujarati and is easily understandable to a modern reader though it is customary to talk of it as “Middle Gujarati.” The middle of this period is almost barren but towards the end we get three great names Akho, Premanand and Samal Bhatt the second of whom is the greatest name in Gujarati literature. On the whole, this period is very rich and very interesting both for the intrinsic beauty of the works, and for the gradual development of the language to its modern form.

3. From the 18th Century to the middle of the 19th Century. This might be almost called the Transition Age leading up to the Renaissance of Gujarati literature of our own time. The early part has been called "imbecile" and "sectarian" by a sound critic but we do get very lovable personalities and sweet singers especially Dhīro Bhagat and Bhojo Bhagat. There are several poetesses too at this time, one of them writing a very quaint mixture of Gujarati, Marathi and Hindi. The period as a whole is certainly uninteresting and insipid. But towards the end we come across a star of the first magnitude, Dayaram second only to Premchand in his fervour and perhaps is superior in thought and depth of philosophy. The language is quite indistinguishable from modern Gujarati.

4. From 1850 to the present day—we should call this the Renaissance of Gujarati Literature. There are a large number of authors of varied degrees of power. The language is very pure in some and the recent movement of the Gujarat Sahitya Parisad has been a distinct move for purifying the written language. The main feature, however, is the contact with the west and the rise of the national feeling. A very marked feature has been the rise of prose and drama both practically unknown in the earlier periods. The historical novel has been a marked success and so also has been the novel for giving religious teaching. Some of the works produced during this generation are works that will take a very high place in the literature of India, if not of the world. In the language itself Western and foreign words come in often and if not the words the thought and style certainly show foreign influences.

5. The ballad literature of Saurashtra. This is mostly unpublished and is merely communicated at assemblies by singers. They are hero tales and legends of the Rajputs very touching and very poetical. The linguistic value is very great for the language is very different from that of the literature we have already considered. It is mostly in the popular dialects of the masses. This should be carefully collected and transcribed by a person on the spot.

6. Parsi literature. Till the beginning of the 19th Century there were few writers in this community. What they wrote was mainly religious and language was rarely pure "Hindu" Gujarati. The Parsi dialect is a remarkable mixture of Sanskrit and Persian (and at the present day, English) words. The sentence construction is more Persian and now a days after the English model. From the 2nd quarter of the 19th Century, Parsis have produced a literature, mainly prose, consisting of novels, essays and short stories. Most of the works are adaptations or direct translations from English but there are a few original ones of some merit. Some Parsi writers are quite capable of writing pure "Hindu" Gujarati, but the main linguistic interest of this part of Gujarati literature lies in the peculiar words and phrases of the dialect as well as in the special type of humour, developed quite different from the Hindu conception of it

7. Islamic literature. This is the smallest sub-division. There have been but few works of note produced in this community. But the influence of Arabic and Islamic thought make this division of some interest."

Read the following Proceedings of the Board of Higher Studies in Experimental Psychology, dated the 28th August, 1918.

“ RESOLVED—

That the time-table for the session 1918-19 annexed to these Proceedings be approved.”

RESOLVED—

That the Proceedings be confirmed.

Read the following Proceedings of a joint meeting of the Boards of Higher Studies in Sanskrit, Pali, Arabic and Persian and Comparative Philology, dated the 30th August, 1918.

“ Read the following memorandum by the President :

Indian Vernaculars in the M.A. Examination.

A previous memorandum drawn up by me contained the outlines of a scheme for the preparation of a series of volumes to facilitate the advanced study of the Indian Vernaculars. This proposal was approved by a Joint meeting of the Boards of Higher Studies in Sanskrit, Pali and Comparative Philology on the 28th June last. The recommendations of the Joint meeting were subsequently confirmed by the Executive Committee and the Council, and the Syndicate has recently recommended to the Senate that the scheme be carried into effect. In the present memorandum, I shall outline my plan for the inclusion of the Indian Vernaculars as subjects for the M.A. Degree Examination. No arguments are needed at the present day to support the position that a critical and scientific, historical and comparative study of the Indian Vernaculars affords ample scope for such intellectual discipline as is requisite for the highest degree examination in the University. The following scheme, designedly made elastic and capable of modification in the light of experience, summarises my proposals.

(1) In Chapter XXXIII of the Regulations for the Degree of Master of Arts, in Section 3, which contains the list of subjects for Examination, after “ (viii) Latin,” insert “ (viiiia) Indian Vernaculars.”

(2) In the same Chapter, after the Syllabus in Latin, insert the following :

“ Indian Vernaculars.”

* Candidates shall be examined in

(A) An Indian Vernacular as principal subject, to be selected by the candidate from a list prescribed from time to time by the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars.

(B) A second Indian Vernacular as subsidiary subject, to be selected by the candidate from a list prescribed from time to time by the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars.

(C) Elements of two of the following languages, to be selected by the candidate with special reference to their influence on the Vernaculars chosen as principal and subsidiary subjects :

• Prakrit, Pali, Persian, Pashtu.

This list may be varied from time to time by the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars.

(D) Elements of Indo-Aryan or such other branch of Philology as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars.

Four papers shall be set on (A), two on (B), one on (C) and one on (D).

The four papers on (A) shall be distributed as follows :

Paper I.—His ory of the literature of the principal language taken up.

Candidates will be expected to possess a general knowledge of the entire subject as also a special knowledge of a prescribed period or movement in literature.

Paper II.—Old Texts and Unseens.

Paper III.—Mediaeval and Modern Texts and Unseens.

Paper IV.—(a) A prescribed period of literary or linguistic history, and (b) a selected movement, literary, scientific, social or religious.

Candidates will be required in this paper to give their answers in the form of two essays, one of which at least must be composed in the vernacular taken up as principal subject.

The two papers on (B) shall be distributed as follows :

Paper V.—Easy prescribed Texts and Unseens.

Paper VI.—Elements of Grammar, Philology and Literary History.

The paper on (C) shall include questions on easy prescribed texts and simple questions on Grammar.

The paper on (D) shall be devoted to Indo-Aryan or other prescribed branch of Philology, in so far as it elucidates the origin and development of Indian Vernaculars.

Each of the eight papers shall carry 100 marks.

The scope of the subject included in each paper shall be defined and suitable books recommended, from time to time, by the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars.

A candidate who has taken his B.A. degree with Honours in a Language, or has taken his M.A. degree in a Language or Comparative Philology, may, subject to the conditions specified below, offer a thesis in lieu of an examination in Papers III and IV.

The conditions to be fulfilled by a candidate who is allowed to offer a thesis are as follows :

(a) He must have completed one year's study of the M.A. course in Indian Vernaculars under University Teachers.

(b) He must, at the end of the year, submit to the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars an application for permission to offer a thesis in lieu of part of the examination.

(c) The application shall indicate the subject and scope of the thesis he wishes to offer and must be recommended by the Professor or Professors under whom he has been working.

(d) If the application be granted by the Board of Higher Studies in Indian Vernaculars, the thesis must be prepared under the general direction of the Professor or Professors with whom the candidate is prosecuting his studies.

(e) The candidate shall deliver three copies of the thesis (printed or typewritten) to the Secretary to the Council of Post-Graduate Teaching in Arts, at least one month before the first day of the M.A. Examination at which he intends to present himself.

(f) The thesis shall be examined by a Board of three Examiners and the maximum number of marks assigned to the thesis shall be 200. The Examiners may, in their discretion, subject the candidate to a viva voce examination on the subject of the thesis.

(g) The name of a candidate whose thesis has been approved shall be marked with an asterisk in the list of successful candidates published in the Gazette and also in the University Calendar."

In the list of Vernaculars which may be taken as principal subject will, I hope, be included not merely Bengali but also Assamese, Oriya, Hindi, Urdu, Gujarati, and Marathi.

In the list of Vernaculars which may be taken as subsidiary subject may be included Bengali, Assamese, Oriya, Hindi, Urdu, Gujarati, Marathi and Pashtu.

I have spoken only of Northern India Vernaculars, but the time may not be distant when Southern India Vernaculars like Telugu, Tamil, Malayalam and Kanarese (some at any rate of which has affected the structure and development of our own Vernacular) may seek admission into our list; and if Sinhalese puts forward a claim, refusal may be difficult if not impossible. It is finally to emphasise the paramount need for adequate arrangements for study, investigation and instruction. Indeed, the field of Indian Vernaculars is so extensive and so little of it has been properly explored, that an army of enthusiastic workers will find ample occupation for at least a generation. Lack of duly qualified teachers, even more than financial considerations, may, however, oblige us to proceed slowly and cautiously in the beginning; but there need be no apprehension as to ultimate success, if we are able to enlist the sympathy and secure the co-operation of all the available workers in this field, some of whom at any rate are already included in the list of our Post-graduate teachers.

(3) In Chapter XI, Section 8, after (r) Hebrew and Syriac, add “(ra) Indian Vernaculars.”

In Section 6, Clause (a), after Sub-clause (iii), add “(iiia) Indian Vernaculars and Comparative Philology.”

24th August, 1918.

ASUTOSH MOOKERJEE.”

That the joint meeting recommend that the Senate be moved to adopt, subject to the sanction of the Governor General in Council, the following changes in the Regulations :

(1) In Chapter XXXIII of the Regulations for the Degree of Master of Arts, in Section 3 which contains the list of subjects for Examination, after “(rin) Latin,” insert “(viiia) Indian Vernaculars.”

Read the following letter from the Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Bengal, suggesting that steps may be taken for the practical study of Co-operation :

No. 857 T. O.

FROM

J. T. DONOVAN, Esq., I.C.S.,
Registrar of Co-Operative Societies, Bengal.

TO

THE REGISTRAR, CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY,
SENATE HOUSE, CALCUTTA.

Darjeeling, the 2nd November, 1918.

SIR

In continuation of my letter No. 11052, dated the 26th August, 1918, and in reply to your letter No. 2482, dated the 21st August, 1918, I have the honour to say that the University may use its influence to get students to take up the practical study of co-operation, as suggested by Sir Daniel Hamilton in his address entitled "The Specious Days to Come" by encouraging the study of Political Economy with special reference to Co-operation. This I understand, the University already does to some extent. I would suggest the foundation of an annual scholarship or prize for a thesis on co-operation, or for an essay, the material for which should be derived from a practical study of the co-operative movement in this Presidency or some part thereof.

2. Such a thesis or essay need not be confined to the actual developments of the movement observed but might put forward, as a result of research or the study of Economic conditions, suggestions for possible developments of the movement not yet tried. Thus, for instance, the co-operative sale of jute has not yet been adequately put to the test in this province. An essay might embody research into the prices for jute obtained in a jute producing area compared with the current prices for the same jute in Calcutta, the possibility of combination among the cultivators of jute to put their crop on the market directly, the present unorganized methods of marketing, the labour and machinery necessary in the baling process, the likelihood of a combination of cultivators being able to obtain the machinery and the labour, actual enquiries in a particular jute producing area revealing particular difficulties or facilities in that area, with suggestions for overcoming such difficulties or taking advantage of such facilities, the finance necessary for undertaking, and so on.

3. I have taken the particular case of jute to exemplify what I mean. A Mymensingh student in Calcutta, for instance, might utilize the time between his terms in research for such an essay, but a Barisal student might produce an essay on the co-operative reclamation and colonization of Sundarban lands, a Bankura student might work on the possibilities of the weaving industry organized on co-operative lines, any student might further investigate co-operative credit and every student might study the possible applications of the co-operative principle to the economic problems of some area in which he could carry out research. No student, however, would have any chance of the scholarship or prize who did not produce a statement of facts derived from research and did not estimate the facts stated at their proper value.

4. I would suggest that such essays or theses might be submitted for examination to a board of examiners nominated by the Bengal Co-operative Organisation Society or to the Registrar of Co-operative Societies assisted by such a board, and I am sure the Bengal Co-operative Organisation Society and the Registrar would readily agree to undertake the work.

5. I need hardly point out that successful, and even unsuccessful candidates, for such a scholarship as I suggest would have much to recommend them for Government employment in connection with the Co-operative Department as a result of their work, while the co-operative movement, and therefore the country generally, would derive considerable benefit from such research by students.

6. An entirely different form of encouragement of the movement would be advice from the University to its affiliated colleges to foster the formation of Stores and other Co-operative Societies amongst the students on the lines of the Societies which have already been started in St. Paul's College, Carmichael College, Rangpur, and so on.

I have to honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
J. DONOVAN,

Registrar.

RESOLVED—

(3) That the prizes be awarded for essays on co-operation based on a practical study of the co-operative movement in the provinces under the jurisdiction of the University.

Note:—When the prizes are announced, it would be desirable to notify that competitors must produce a full statement of facts derived from research and estimate the facts stated at their proper value.

(4) That a Standing Committee of three experts be appointed by the Syndicate for the guidance of such graduates as may undertake the investigation; one Member to be nominated by the Board of Higher Studies in Economics, one by the Board of Studies in Economics, and one by the Bengal Co-operative Organisation Society.

(5) That the essays be required to be forwarded to the Registrar not later than the 31st December of the year in which the prizes are to be awarded.

(6) That the essays received be examined by a Board of three Honorary Examiners, consisting of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and two other Members, nominated respectively by the Board of Higher Studies in Economics and the Board of Studies in Economics.

(7) That the prizes be awarded by the Syndicate on the report of the Examiners.

(8) That arrangements be made for the publication of the important essays submitted by competitors for the prize.

Read the following Memorandum prepared by Dr. Taraporewala:—

“A scheme for Iranian Philology to be incorporated with the course of Persian.

Sometime ago the Hon'ble Dr. Suhrawardy asked me to consider the question of having a systematic course of Iranian Philology in connection with the M.A. scheme in Persian. I have consulted our President, Sir Asutosh Mookerjee about this matter and with his approval I have made up the following scheme, which I now beg to put before the Persian Board.

I think that there should be at least one paper, compulsory for all students, on Philology. I would also wish, if possible, to have the Examination divided into two sections, as in English, with one section devoted mainly to Philology. In any case, I should wish the first part of my proposals to be adopted soon. The second may wait till we can be sure that more students would be willing to take it up. Perhaps the knowledge that such a scheme has been accepted by the University may be a direct inducement to some students to take it up.

1. The paper on Philology should be entirely devoted to the subject and should be compulsory for all. It may be in two sections of 60 and 40 marks respectively. The former should deal with the following matters.

General Principles of Philology, the history of Philology, especially Iranian, in Europe as well as in the East. The various types of languages, the I.E. group, as distinguished from the other groups; the Aryan branch with its subdivisions Iranian and Indian; the main points of contrast between these two. Elements of historical Persian Grammar. The main Iran dialects.

The second part carrying 40 marks should include :

The Arabic element in Modern Persian, earlier Semetic influences in the Iranian languages, the spread of Persian language throughout Asia and its influence over other non-Iranian languages especially of India and notably on the development of Urdu.

II. For the fuller course there should be a special group, as in English, having four papers :

1. Elements of the phonology and morphology of Old Persian and Avesta. History of the development of Ancient Persian up to the Middle Persian period (the beginning of the Parthian dynasty). Elements of Syntax of Avesta and Old Persian. Outline history of the Achaemenian period. History of the cuneiform scripts as used in Persia.

2. Elements of Pahlavi Grammar, Phonology, Morphology and Syntax, as compared and contrasted with Modern Persian. Pazand or Huzvareh. History of the Parthian and Sassanian Periods, History of the Pahlavi and Modern Avesta script.

3. Elementary Arabic Grammar and Text. The influence of Arabic Grammar and language on Persian. Pure Aryan Persian as contrasted with Arabianised Persian, (this may be illustrated by two typical texts). History of the origin and spread of Arabic script. Modern Persian Grammar.

4. Aryan antiquities and culture of Ancient Iran. The influence of Zoroaster and His Religion on Persian literature and culture.

One of the following :—	40
(a) Elementary Avesta Grammar and text (Yasna ix).			60

or

(b) Elementary Old Persian Grammar and text (Behistun Inscriptions, cols. 1 and 2).

(c) Elementary Pahlavi Grammar and text (Kārnāmak-i-Artakshir-i-Pāpakan, Chaps. 1 and 2)"

Read also letters from Sheikh Abu Nasr Gilani and Mahmud Kazim Shirazi stating that the Syllabuses in Persian for the B.A. and M.A. Examinations were not properly graded and were defective in many other important respects.

RESOLVED—

That the President be requested to arrange for a joint meeting of the Board of Higher Studies in Persian and Arabic and the Board of Higher Studies in Persian and Arabic and Urdu to consider the whole question of revision of the Persian and Arabic Syllabuses for the B.A. and M.A. Examinations and that the scheme suggested by Dr. Taraporewala as also the letters of Messrs Gilani and Shirazi be referred to the joint meeting."

RESOLVED—

That the Proceedings be confirmed.

RESOLVED—

That steps be taken to prepare and publish an introductory manual for the study of Prakrit, in connection with the preparation of Typical Selections in Prakrit and Pali, already sanctioned by the Senate.

Read the following note on the third paper in Sanskrit by Dr. Taraporewala :

“I believe that there is a general consensus of opinion, both among the students as well as the Professors that the Sabdasaktiprakashika, a book of the Navyanyaya school of thought has very little, if at all, to do with Philology as such. I therefore suggest that it be entirely dispensed with and that in its stead one of the following alternative courses be prescribed :—

A. A short history of the Systems of Sanskrit Grammar.
Text book : Belvalkar, S. D. ... Systems of Sanskrit Grammar (Oriental Book Supplying Agency, Poona). or Goldstucker T. ... Panini (Reprint by the Panini Press, Allahabad).

B. A portion of the earliest Sanskrit Etymologist, Yaska.
Text book : Niruktalaghuvivritti (Nirnayasagar Press, Bombay).

A portion of this 'or some similar book may be prescribed.

- C. Introduction to the Mahabhashya of Patanjali.
Text book : The first Ahnika of the Mahabhashya, or some other suitable work.
- D. Pali Grammar (elementary) and text.
Text book : Second Pali Course by J. Gray (Baptist Mission Press, Calcutta), and Dhammapada I—X.
- E. Prakrit Grammar (elementary) and text.
Text book : Prakrita Prakasa of Vararuchi.
Setubandha (selected portions).
- F. The Main Aryan and Non-Aryan Languages of India and their geographical and philological relations.
Text book : Languages of India (from the Census Report of 1901) by G. A. Grierson.
and Imperial Gazetteer of India, Vol. I, Ch. 7 and Vol. II, Ch. 11.
- G. The History of Writing.
Text book : Clodd, E. The story of the Alphabet.
- H. Comparative Syntax of Vedic and Classical Sanskrit.
Text book ; Macdonell's Vedic Grammar for Students, paras. 184-218.
and a book of illustrative selections from the Veda like one of the two Series of Hymns from the Rigveda by Peterson or the Vedic Reader by Macdonnell.
- I. Urgeschichte with special reference to Vedic Religion and Mythology.

Text book : Schrader, O. ... Die Indogermanen. (This is the best book I know on the subject which is suited for our purpose, but for the use of our students it will have to be translated and adapted to the needs of Sanskrit knowing people of this country)."

Read also the following note by Babu Prabhatchandra Chakrabarti, on the study of the "Śabdaśaktiprakāśikā" as affording data of Philological investigations, specially the "Morphology of Speech :"

"Though a treatise characterised all throughout by subtle discussions like other works on the same line, the "Śabdaśaktiprakāśikā" evinces a learned attempt towards both linguistic and grammatical speculations as absorbing the keen attention of the Indian thinkers belonging to the Navya-Nyāya school. We should, however, make allowance for such unavoidable fondness for subtlety, as is exhibited by the work in question, from the consideration that it owes its origin to that erudite Sanskrit scholar who is unanimously exalted to be one of the greatest Naiyāikar. So far as our linguistic vision is permitted to proceed through the labyrinthine mass of niceties wherewith the book makes appearance before us, we are quite sure that we will not be far from truth if we make the assertion that it contains some topics, though grammatical in forms, which really involve philological interests. It is almost a truism that the linguistic materials provided by the "Śabdāsaktiprakasika", if methodically arranged and supplemented by references from cognate works, (Mahābhāṣya, Nirukta, Śaktivāda, and Vākyapadīya), will be sufficient enough to constitute a regular Science of Sanskrit Language, at least, in our acceptance of the expression. Attention is particularly drawn to the fact that when we prefer to place the "Śabdāsaktiprakāsika" on the level of Philological works, we necessarily imply that it should be taught not from the standpoint of the Navya-Nyaya, but only as furnishing materials for philological discourses.

The following are references to the Karikas that involve philological interests:—

(1) The Karika No. 2. sheds some lustre upon the author's view regarding the power of speech. Importance of words involving Expectancy, Compatibility and Proximity in presenting an exact image of the object denoted by them.

(2) The Karika. 3. The cognition of meanings from words having mutual compatibility is distinguished from both perceptual and inferential knowledge. Words as a source of knowledge.

(3) Karika. 6. Words having meanings (सार्थक शब्द) are alone held to be capable of producing the (शब्दबोध) or verbal cognition. Their nature and divisions into bases, suffixes and indeclinables.

(4) Karika. 12. The so-called (शब्दबोध) is generated only when Sarthakas (सार्थक) enter into combination with one another in such a way as to constitute a sentence—the unit of significant speech. This is harmonious with the view of the modern philologists who maintain that language started with sentences.

(5) Kārika. 13. Definition of sentence. It is really interesting to take notice of the arguments by which Jagadīśa has refuted the definition of sentence as suggested by the lexicographer Amarasingha. The structure of the sentence and the grammatical relations in which its different parts stand to one another. Com. The Morphology of Speech.

(6) Kārika. 14. The principle underlying the classification of the base (प्रकृति) The theory of "the reducibility of words to roots" as expounded by Jaska is to be discussed in this connexion.

(7) Kārika. 16. Various forms of Nāmans (नाम).

(8) Kārikas. 17. 18. Four-fold division of words as denoting genus, individuals, quality, and actions. Nature of Convention (सङ्केत) Division of technical terms (संज्ञा) Two kinds of conventions-eternal and modern.

(9) Kārika. 20. Various sources of (शक्तिग्रह) or cognition of verbal significance.

(10) Kārikas. 29. The classification of (यौगिक) into Samāsa Taddhita, and Kridanta indicated the processes of forming Primary Nominal bases and Verbal derivatives.

(11) Kārikas. 31. 33. The Principle of brevity as illustrated by the Samasas. The principles on which Samasas are variously classified.

(12) Kārika. 54. Determination of genders depends on applications.

(13) Kārikas. 56. 58. Nature of roots and their divisions.

(14) Kārikas. 60. 61. 95. Sanskrit Language is by far the richest one in point of inflections. Divisions of formative elements into (सुप्) and (तिङ्).

(15) Kārika. 67. Importance of verbs in the conception of Kārikas.

If formal Logic is said to be based on language, as Sayce maintains, then we are entitled to say without any hesitation that the "Śabdaśaktiprakāśika" dealing, as it does, with logical aspects of grammar, is, in fact, a treatise on linguistic science".

Read further a letter from Babu Radhagobinda Basak proposing the inclusion, in the list of text books, of Bhasavritti of Purushottamdeva (recently published by the Varendra Research Society, Rajshahi).

3. Read the following letter from Mr. S. Maulik, Professor of Zoology, formulating a scheme for the organisation of the Department.

211 PICCADILLY, LONDON, W.
April 29th, 1918.

TO

THE REGISTRAR,

UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA.

SIR,

In view of the fact that I have been appointed the Professor of Zoology in the University of Calcutta, I beg leave to formulate a scheme for the organisation of the Department.

2. The aim of the Zoological Department should be (a) to afford facilities to anybody desiring any information on Zoological subjects, (b) to give preliminary training in Zoology to students who wish to apply that knowledge to medicine or agriculture, the latter term being used in its widest sense, (c) to assist students to contribute to biological knowledge and thought.

3. In order to attain these objects the Department should have (a) a Library, (b) a Laboratory, (c) a Museum, (d) a Marine Biological Station, (e) a Biological Ship, and (f) Publications.

4. Library. According to my conception of a zoological library it should contain three kinds of publications, (a) the modern publications of the text-book nature; these are either comprehensive compilations of all information, or attempts to present in plain terms to the beginner biological theories or thoughts. (b) All zoological periodicals which, as a rule, contain most of the original papers. Some of these periodicals contain both zoological and botanical memoirs; these will naturally form a part of the library which will be common to both the Departments. (c) All classical publications. By classical I mean those of Aristotle, Pliny, Galen, Cuvier, Saint Hilaire, Goethe, Buffon, Linnaeus, Wolffe, von Baer, His, and others.

5. Laboratory. It should be equipped with all necessary appliances which are neither very complicated nor numerous. It should provide each student with a good microscope. It should contain embedding baths, microtomes, the usual laboratory glassware, and chemicals necessary for microscopic work. I shall go into these details in a letter dealing with an estimate of the laboratory.

6. Museum. It should be designed as a museum to teach morphology. It should therefore contain specimens illustrating series of skeletons, soft parts, dissections of various organs, etc. It will be seen that to build up such a museum requires patience, skill and time.

7. Marine Biological Station. A station should be built on a suitable spot on the sea shore carefully selected for the purpose. It should have a laboratory, a library, and tanks and reservoirs to facilitate observation and experiment.

8. Ship. This should be built in such a way that the botanical and zoological departments may both work in co-operation on board. I wish to build it in concrete, so that it will be non-magnetic, thus making it easier to make magnetic observations at sea. This is very rare, because no ship has been built which is non-magnetic (except a bronze one by the Carnegie Institution of America). If the ship is to contain three staffs, it ought to be of sufficient size. The idea of building such a ship by the University of Calcutta is therefore specially attractive.

9. Publications. The Zoological Department should issue a periodical which would publish results of researches carried on in the University. There should also be other publications from the Department, but that depends on men, material and their work. Publication is a great stimulus to work, which, when it is good, enhances the importance of a department and raises it in the estimation of sister-organisations of other countries.

10. Policy. Zoology is a branch of the natural sciences, the materials of which, either for anatomical study or for experimental purposes, lie in such places as necessitate one's going out-of-doors to seek them. The principle contained in the above sentence is an important one. There ought to be scholarships given to advanced students, those who have learnt how to observe and what to expect in particular cases, to enable them to travel in any part of India. They will bring back specimens to the laboratory which will enrich the museum. If this policy is followed, the museum will become gradually more and more important and useful. At the same time we shall turn out true zoologists from the University. The laboratory can only give a partial conception of the animal world. The mind still moves in a limited channel. It is only when one goes out and finds oneself in close communion with Nature that one feels free; one sees things with a larger mind, one gets a better comprehension of the animal world. To enable the student to obtain this breadth and freedom of the mind will be the keynote of my teaching. I believe this will stimulate independent thinking and research and consequently will lead to satisfactory results.

11. The above then, Sir, is a brief outline of the scheme for the Zoological Department. Each item in the programme (including the designing of suitable buildings to house the different sections of the Department and designing of the ship) has to be worked out in detail. I have thought out these details, but I think it is unnecessary to go into them in this letter. To some, this programme in general, and one or two items in particular, will appear very ambitious. There is no reason why it will be considered so but for one thing, namely, lack of funds. It is true we may not have funds available at once, but my point is that this programme will be kept in view, and endeavours will be made to raise money for the purpose. Personally speaking, I shall consider this as one of my duties as the professor of Zoology.

12. To make a beginning, we shall start with a library of text-books, etc., and a laboratory with the apparatus which are absolutely necessary. I do not wish to buy books and apparatus in large quantity while the war is on, firstly because one cannot be sure of punctual deliveries, and secondly because most firms do not scruple to increase their prices by 60 or 65%. You will see this from the correspondence I shall enclose for my present estimates for the library and the laboratory.

13. On behalf of the Calcutta University Museum, I have arranged with Dr. Wood-Jones, Professor of Anatomy in the University of London, who works in the laboratories of the Zoological Gardens, to collect all material that can be spared from that institution. I have also arranged to get from Mr. Evans, M.A., Oxon, head of the Biological Department of Guy's Hospital, a duplicate set of material he can spare. I shall require some money for bottles and other receptacles and alcohol to preserve the material in. I have already bought 28 volumes for the library from a second-hand book shop, which I thought were going cheap, and I wanted to secure them. I have spent £6-10s.-0d. Vouchers will be enclosed with the estimates.

14. Finally, I wish to write one word about myself personally. I am engaged as I believe Sir Asutosh and the Council are aware, on a rather large piece of work. It involves a great deal of labour on my part. I have thousands of specimens to examine minutely and study. This volume will contain more than a hundred illustrations. Most of them are ready and have gone to the blockmakers. I am well advanced with the preparation of the manuscript. The progress depends on the difficulties encountered in the study. I request, therefore that Sir Asutosh will be pleased to grant me time till I have seen the volume through the press. I shall describe it as the first publication by a member of the Zoological Department of the Calcutta University.

15. I would request that you be kind enough to lay before Sir Asutosh and the Council this letter, and to convey to him personally my grateful thanks for giving me an opportunity of initiating and organising the Zoological Department of the University. I cannot close this letter without expressing my high esteem and regard for you personally.

I am,
Sir,
Respectfully yours,
S. Maulik."

RESOLVED—

That the consideration of the letter be postponed till the receipt of further communication from Mr. Maulik regarding the financial aspect of his scheme.

4. Read an endorsement from Dr. P. C. Mitter forwarding an application from Sachindranath Ghose, who failed to pass his M.Sc. Examination in Chemistry last year, for permission to reappear at the examination.

RESOLVED—

That the application be refused.

5. The Secretary reported that Mr. Cotter had been appointed by order of the President as an External Examiner in Geology in place of Mr. P. N. Datta resigned.

RESOLVED—

That the action of the Secretary be approved.

6. Considered the question of preparing the draft Budget for the session 1918-19.

RESOLVED—

That the preparation of the Budget be postponed till the next meeting.

7. Read a letter from the Principal, Presidency College, on the subject of allotment of funds for periodical Excursions of Post-Graduate students of Geology, Botany and Chemistry.

Read also a letter from the Officiating Principal, Presidency College, stating that on a rough calculation Rs. 1,800 will be necessary for four periodical excursions of Post-Graduate students of Geology, Botany and Chemistry.

RESOLVED—

That the Principal, Presidency College, be informed that the University has not any funds available for the purpose mentioned; and that in the opinion of the Executive Committee, the funds ought to be provided by the authorities of the Presidency College, just in the same way as the cost of the maintenance of the laboratories in the various departments is supplied by Government.

211, PICADILLY,
LONDON, W.I.
May 16, 1918.

THE REGISTRAR,
UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA.

SIR,

In presenting the estimates of the necessary appliances for the Zoological Department I beg leave to offer a few observations.

The list of articles in the enclosed estimate will give you an idea of the things required and their prices. Although I am enclosing my correspondence with two firms, I have visited and discussed things with almost all the Scientific instrument makers in London, and I shall buy the articles wherever I find them most economical for my purpose. Messrs. Baird and Tatlock, being general agents for all Scientific instruments, were asked to quote for everything, but this does not mean that I shall buy everything from them. They have, as you will notice, quoted for photo-micro-graphic apparatus, but I have since seen other firms with regard to this, and I shall get an estimate, for a complete outfit for the photographic rooms, which will be sent on to you as soon as I receive it.

I understand some of the chemicals, like absolute alcohol (which will be used in large quantities) are now obtainable at Calcutta. I should like to have a list of things that can be had there. I should also like to know the voltage of the street mains at Calcutta; if I remember right, it is 200 volts. This is necessary for buying lamps for the projection lantern and the photographic rooms.

I wish to buy also some lantern and microscopic slides. Of course they will all be made by me in the laboratory, but some are necessary to start work with. These, as you will notice, I have not included in the list.

From the estimates for the Library and the present one and another for the photographic equipment (to follow soon) you will see that that about £ 600 will be required for the Library and the Laboratory excluding the furniture. If it is agreed to send me this sum I shall propose the following:—The National Bank of India who are the London agents for the Bank of Bengal, may be advised to give me credit for the amount, either by letter or wire. I shall make all disbursements by cheques from this fund as the articles are purchased. This will ensure a complete account being kept of the money. When everything is bought they will be carefully packed, fully insured for all risks, and despatched as soon as possible.

Lastly, I wish to add that I have visited Hearson's, Ross's, Baker's, Negretti & Zambra, Zeiss branch in London, and several other dealers in optical instruments for the microscopes, and I hope to select several good ones from these firms. I find Harrod's and Selfridge's optical department very convenient for picking up a good Zeiss or Leitz. The care necessary for a good selection of these instruments will, I assure you, be bestowed.

With the request that you will be so good as to place this before Sir Asutosh,

I am
Sir,
Respectfully,
S. MAULIK.

211, PICADILLY, LONDON, W.

24th May, 1918.

To

THE REGISTRAR,

UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA.

SIR,

Enclosed is a letter I have written to the Spencer Lens Co. Buffalo, N. Y. U. S. A. Manufacturers of Microscopes. after examining many makes in the London market I consider the Stand I have selected suitable for my purpose. Should we come to closer business relations with this Company, I may have to inform you to cable them the order. In order that you may understand the situation I enclose a copy of my letter to them. It is to be understood that this is only one of the strings to my bow. In the event of negotiations with this firm falling through, I have got other firms to fall back on.

I have already written to you four letters including the estimates for the Library and the Laboratory.

Yours faithfully,

S. MAULIK.

211, PICADILLY, LONDON, W.

27th May, 1918.

To

THE REGISTRAR,

UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA.

SIR,

You will have noticed from the enclosures in my previous letter that the firms manufacturing scientific instruments are controlled by the Ministry of Munitions. The sale of microscopes, etc, is controlled by the Optical branch of the Ministry. A certificate from the Ministry is necessary if I wish to buy microscopes in the London market. I must prove I am authorised to buy them, other laboratory apparatus and glass-ware, for the Zoological Department of the University. It would be an advantage, in order to secure priority to emphasise the point that the goods are required for Government purposes.

I would request that you be kind enough to put the matter before Sir Asutosh and supply me with the necessary credentials. If the Spencer Lens Coy. of U. S. A. (my letter to you 24th

May) can supply the goods directly without much difficulty, so much the better. In any case, it would expedite matters if I am armed with the credentials.

Respectfully,
S. MAULIK.

RESOLVED—

(1) That arrangements be made to place at the disposal of Prof. Maulik £600 for purchases for the Library and Laboratory of the Zoological Department. (The sum to be placed in the hands of the National Bank of India or some other London Bank.)

(2) That steps be taken to move the Ministry of Munitions to sanction the purchase of scientific instruments for the Zoological department by Prof. Maulik.
